Dave: Among other options, we could try to move the meeting with Don Hamilton back to later Monday, or even Tuesday, if we first want to both talk to the consultant and have any sort of RMP premeeting to discuss strategy.

Dave (twice),

I can meet with Don Hamilton at 2 p.m. on Monday, but I cannot participate in a telecon with the consultant at 9 a.m. on Monday. I have the direct reports meeting with Lucy at 8:30 a.m. and a staff meeting at 10 a.m. Could we talk to the consultant around 1 p.m.?

I spoke with Don this morning and of course he is anxious to meet again. He was thinking Friday sometime. I told him I thought you were unavailable and perhaps Monday may be better. I will be out on Friday but meet without me if it works.

The consultant agreed to provide a quick analysis for the $2,500 (against his better judgment, he said) and try to get us a draft by the close of business today. We can then discuss the draft Monday morning and meet with Don Monday afternoon perhaps?

I told him I would get back to him today as to our schedule and when we can meet.
